In its most recent biennial review of the gender wage gap, the US Department of Labor (USDOL) reported a 9.4 per cent gap at the national level. In recent years, the Government has focused on closing the gap. But in an article published in the Insights journal of the International Labour Organisation (ILO) in 2015, the organisation outlined that it is important to examine the various dimensions of the wage gap, and that there is an urgent need to find effective ways to tackle the problem, such as including unpaid work in the minimum wage and paying women equally for equal work. Latest research shows that in New Zealand, women earn 77c for every $1 men earn – a pay gap of 15.6 per cent. Where is the wage gap The discrepancy between what men and women earn has been a long-standing issue in the business community, but was brought to the public eye by a large-scale data 1cb139a0ed
